ROSADALIS

THE INGREDIENTS THAT COMPOSE ROSADALIS are published on every package, therefore it is not a secret preparation, consequently

PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT

It is a certain cure for Scrofula, Syphilis in all its forms, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Liver Complaint and all diseases of the Blood.

ONE BOTTLE OF ROSADALIS

will do more good than ten bottles of the Syrups of Sarsaparilla.

THE UNDERSIGNED PHYSICIANS

have used Rosadalis in their practice for the past three years and freely endorse it as a reliable Alterative and Blood Purifier.

SELECT MISCELLANY.

THE LADY OF THE KEY.

"This is the place, doctor; and, for God's sake make, haste, or we shall be too late."

With these words, the rough laboring man who summoned me, threw open the door of rickety tenement house in a back lane, and together we began to mount the crazy stairs.

It was a horrible spot—filthy, dark and wretched—the abode of poverty and woe; and as we went up to the topmost story of the reeking building, I fairly shuddered to think that there existed human beings who huddled together there and called that den a home!

The thousand and one clocks of the city were tolling out the hour of midnight as we entered the sick room, and stood in the presence of a woman who I knew at a glance was dying of starvation.

My profession had, in a measure, hardened me to such scenes, for I had been but two years a physician, and the practice of a young medical fledgling is, it is a known fact, generally among the lower classes, where want and the evils which follow in its track abound.

The chamber, if the small cramped department was worthy of so dignified a name, was without a carpet, and contained by way of furniture only two half-broken chairs, the bed on which the patient lay, and a small, unblacked cooking stove.

The walls were dirty and smoky, and the sombre glare of a greasy old oil lamp, with a chimney nearly obscured by the accumulated soot of several weeks, cast but a feeble light around.

I looked at the woman stretched out and nearly dead before me, and, as her closed eyes quivered with a faint but ineffectual attempt to open when her dull ears caught the sound of our coming, I shook my head.

The face of my conductor fell.

"Is she past hope?" the man asked, in a whisper.

I nodded affirmatively.

"I bought some brandy as I came to you,' said the kind-hearted fellow, still in a whisper; "wouldn't that do her good?"

I reached out my hand for it and tasted it, it was vile stuff—a nauseous compound of crude whisky and adulterated cognac oil; but it was the best sold in that neighborhood, it had strength, so I put the flask on the patient's lips, and forced a few drops down her throat.

She revived almost instantaneously and opened her eyes wildly

"Where is it? oh, where is it?" she grasped faintly, and her pale, bony fingers began a tremulous search about her neck.

I thought it delirium, and waited silently. At length she fastened on a gold chain that was about her neck; one end of which was hidden away in her bosom.

A shade of relief passed over her worn countenance at this, and drawing the portion that had been concealed into the light, she clasped convulsively in both hands a small iron key that was attached to it, and presented it to her lips.

"Thank heaven!" she murmered as she did this, and glanced sharply about the place. "Now, when he comes again he will not harm me!"

Immediately she grew stronger, and said, quite rationally, but feebly:

"You are a doctor?"

"Yes," I said.

"Who is that other person with you?"

The man himself answered the question:

"I am the owner of this house, and your friend."

"My friend,' repeated the woman in a low tone. "My friend, sir. I had a husband, but he was no friend, and he is dead—and—I—I am dying, too."

I tried to stop her from talking, but it was of no avail, and she continued:

"Doctor, you are making efforts to save me; I know you are. You know the strength of a woman's will? Well, I have made up my mind to die, and I will not be baulked. You ask me my reasons. Well, you shall have them—after I'm gone. They are written out in this paper. Promise me you will not break the seal until I am dead."

I promised; and she drew a small sacket from under her pillow, and placed it in my hands. Then, entirely exhausted by the efforts she had made in speaking, the woman closed her eyes, and after a quick gasp, ceased to breathe.

My companion, provided with the necessary certificate, sought an undertaker, and I went home as speedily as possible, glad in my heart of hearts that the woman was at rest.

Once seated in my office, I broke the seal of the packet, and read the following strange story:

I have been a faithless wife; but, oh, how bitterly I have been punished.

I was a native of a far country—a Russian. Here I was but a poverty stricken, unhapy exile.

Years ago I was the young and happy wife of the Duke of all the Russias.

He was powerful and rich, and a slave to my beauty.

I loved him in return with all the ardor of a passionate soul.

He had taken me to his heart a peasant girl, and had raised me from harsh, daily toil, to a proud coronet!

My husband was forty years my senior!

Yet, oh, how kind he was to me, how fatherly!

We dwelt in the country to the south, and the Duke had a winter palace at St. Petersburg.

At court I was the cynosure of all eyes.

The more so, perhaps, because my history was known.

From a rude cabin I had risen to a palace.

But St. Petersburg, the gorgeous capital, there it was, amid splendors almost like enchantment, that blight fell upon me!

There, amid the crowd of wealth and gallantry that came to lay its homage at my feet, I first saw the cause of all my woe.

There, first burst upon my vision Count Ivan, glorious in all the charms of opening manhood.

The peach-blossom of youth was upon his cheek, and the romance of love was in his voice!

I owned his influence in my heart, but shrank from him as an adder.

Yet, whenever he was near, I was concious that new beauties flushed into my face, and that strange unwonted sensation penetrated my bosom!

I scarcely ever dared to openly look at him, but my furtive glances revealed to me a terrible fact.

The Count Ivan looked at me with languishing eyes.

Adonis himself never seemed more lovely to impassioned Venus than he did at times to me.

But I loved my husband tenderly, devotedly, and the thought of treason to him was madness.

And I did not meditate treason.

His passion for me still continued as ever, and was daily manifested.

Jealousy was as remote from his great soul as from God himself, and hence when gay noblemen, with them the Count Ivan, were admiringly about me, the duke was not only pleased, but actually treated the homage extended to me as in part tendered to himself.

I tried to shun the Count Ivan.

My soul whispered danger to me.

But the Duke was partial to the youth.

He told him, while I shuddered, that his doors were open to him.

I could not warn my husband.

I could not tell him my fears.

And I wept alone.

Meanwhile the Count Ivan was always near me, and each day grew more ardent and more open in his passion.

I could not fail to understand him now.

At last the crisis came!

And Fate—horrible and grim Fate—wrote in it's awful book the fulfillment of my destiny!

One evening I was left alone with my lover.

We were at St. Petersburg, and the duke was absent somewhere, busied with the affairs of his vast estate.

It was the gay winter season, and the frozen snow that night was alive with tinkling bells.

I was alone with Count Iv

The Beaver Argus.

J. WEYAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Beaver, Pa., June 5th, 1872.

IF the ARGUS cannot conscientiously be a "party organ," as politics are running at the present time, it can at least be a newspaper. It will, therefore, give its readers to know who all the candidates are who are before the people this campaign. See the list in another column.

THE critics of the present Administration say, with a good deal of force, since it has been discovered that important army records have disappeared from the war Department, that "the military occupants of the White House regard the Government as their private estate."

JAMES GORDON BENNETT of the N. Y. Herald, an old and most successful journalist, died last Sunday morning, in the 77th year of his age. Arch Bishop McCloskey administered the rites of the Church to deceased, and he sank calmly and peacefully to his everlasting rest.

THE Correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune, writing from Reading on the evening of the 30th ult., says a prominent Democrat on that evening asserted positively that a careful canvass had been made of the delegates to the Democratic Convention there assembled, and that there was a majority of thirty-three in favor of indorsing Mr. Greeley outright.

THE Temperance party of this State will meet in Altoona Friday 14th inst., for the purpose of nominating a State ticket, and select an Electoral ticket for the Presidency. The candidate for Governor will probably be either George F. McFarland, of Dauphin county, or Hon. S. B. Chase, of Susquehanna.

CHARLES R. BUCKALEW, the Democratic nominee for Governor is, perhaps, the strongest man that party could have selected. He has been in the U. S. Senate six years from this State, and has held other responsible offices. His integrity is beyond question, and his ability ample. It is reported John W. Forney peremptorily ordered his managing editor of the Philadelphia Press to demand the withdrawal of Gen. Hartranft's name as Republican candidate for Governor, on receipt of the news of Buckalew's nomination.

NOW that there has been an extension of the session of Congress agreed upon by both Houses till the 10th inst., necessitated for an opportunity to ward off the damaging effect of the late speeches of Messrs. Sumner and Schurz on the administration—for this was the paramount reason assigned—a very bitter and exciting debate is looked for in the Senate. It is announced that Carpenter has a very long speech prepared; Morton, Conkling and Edmunds will speak, and Chandler declares he will tomahawk Sumner. The prospect is for the freest fight of the session. The attempt to pass Sumner by in silence has failed, and the peace policy is to be abandoned.

IN the recent struggle over the Tariff in Congress, the Democratic members from Pennsylvania were generally on the side of the Protectionists, and showed a bold front on questions more especially effecting the interests of the State. It must have cost some of them a pang, and we know that Messrs. Haldeman and B. F. Myres voted with their colleagues with somewhat of the feeling in which Ancient Pistol ate his leek, yet they will probably make large claims upon the gratitude of their constituents. Messrs. Foster, Randall, and Speer must be commended for the more generous spirit in which they rendered valuable services to the industries of the country.

LAST Wednesday the Secretary of the U. S. Treasury, by direction of the President, sent an order to the Collector of the Port of New Orleans to watch for the vessels reported to be on their way to that city, having on board certain Greek brigands—part of the band engaged in the murder of an English Nobleman, and others, at Marathon—who were reprieved on condition of leaving Greece. The Collector is instructed to prevent their landing, and report the facts at Washington. This is a step in the right direction. Many European countries have been in the habit of sending their criminals and desperadoes to this country, until the nuisance has become to great to be longer tolerated.

GEN Buell was examined relative to the lost records, on Wednesday last. He had no knowledge of the records in his case, though he was aware of their disappearance for some time past. But he had a full transcript of the evidence. Ex-President Johnson has been subpœned, and is expected in Washington soon. His examination is based upon the theory that the Buell record contains such testimony concerning his attempt to detain Buell at Nashville as would make it to Johnson's interest to make way with it. There is so much rottenness in the various Departments, that it would be the part of wisdom to have a new deal, and see if things cannot be honestly managed in the future.

ANOTHER neat specimen of whitewashing is presented in the report of the majority of the Congressional Committee appointed to investigate the affairs of the District of Columbia. According to the amiable gentleman for whom Mr. Starkweather speaks, the district authorities have been guilty of trifling mis-management, such as undertaking a too extensive system of improvements, and paying out too much money for divers and sundry purposes, and a gentle rebuke is administered, and the offenders are permitted to go on and repeat the same operation whenever they see fit. The minority report paints a different picture in clearer and sharper colors. The facts presented in it show that the district, under its present mongrel management, is a second edition of Tammany revised and corrected on a small scale. The public debt has been increased nearly $14,000,000, and the current expenses of that little patch of ground owned by the general government are more than forty times as much as those of the whole state of Rhode Island. The bills for advertising alone foot up $120,000, and other items figure in the same proportion. In short this portion of the national domain furnishes plentiful pickings for a nest of thieves, and will probably continue to do so as long as the present party remains in power. A curious feature of the case is that most of the financial leaks are traceable directly to the board of public works, the members of which are appointed by President GRANT.

THE canvass for local nominations which closed in this county on the 25th of May, was a remarkable one in several respects. In fact, we presume, the like of it was never witnessed in this county before. From what we knew of the canvass while it was pending, and from what we have learned of it since it is over, we judge that honor and fair dealing were wholly lost sight of by those who are now running the Republican party in this county. For the past two or three years they have been promising nearly all of their followers an official position of some sort or other, and when a score or more of them became candidates this year, the question with the "ring managers" became a very perplexing one as to how these followers of their's could be got rid of and a plausible pretext offered at the same time for their slaughter. They finally concluded that a strict watch should be kept upon such candidates as they had determined to throw aside. As soon, therefore as one of these latter happened to be seen talking to Gen. Irwin, accepting his hospitality and staying over night with him, or if one of them called at the ARGUS office, and treated us courteously, the "Jim Trimble's," "J. B. Vince's," "Jonce Lawrence's," "Billy Kerr's," "Dr. Shurlock's," and "the Patterson's," were at once apprised of it, and the howl set up, that they were "Irwin's candidates," the "ARGUS" candidates," and thence-forward they were pursued with a ferocity that would have done no discredit to a band of mirarderous Comanches while exterminating a settlement of pale faces. Three-fourths of these defeated candidates were not our personal friends—they were the Radical's—and we presume there is not one of them who is not indignant at the treatment he has received at the hands of those whose support he had a right to expect. That any of these will pull vigorously in the traces in the future is hardly to be expected.

But the canvass disclosed other irregularities which are attracting more attention just now than those we have already alluded to. No sooner did Mr. Dravo announce himself as a candidate for the State Senate, than a movement was set on foot in a neighboring town to prevent his talking to the people in the only way his business arrangements would admit of. That movement was partially successful, and borrowing the idea from there a few persons in South Beaver township afterwards actually broke up a meeting which he had appointed, and refused to let him speak at all, thus grossly insulting a high-toned gentleman, a useful citizen, and institutiug "Border Ruffianism" in our very midst. But the irregularities or rather immorralities now, do not stop here. One of the prominent candidates for a nomination while professing to temperance men to be a temperance man, canvassed the county with a bottle of liquor in his pocket, treating those who would drink with him, and actually in one instance furnishing enough to a minor to make him too drunk to take care of himself; while his friends in the anti-temperance interest chartered the whisky shops of Rochester and ordered free drinks for those who would agree to vote for him and shout in his behalf.

We mention these circumstances only to show the utter unscrupulousness of our party's managers, and to point out the low plane on which they are now running the Republican party of this county. To us, our locals political condition is not only disgusting but absolutely heart-sickening, and until the party here is lifted up into a higher and better atmosphere, and its management confided to more conscientious hands, the ARGUS will lay no claim to a party organship. It will, as heretofore, support Republican principles, but it will not advocate the election of dishonest, intriguing, or unscrupulous men to official positions, whether they wear the livery of the Republican party or not. To urge their selection would be an offense to decent Journalism, a wrong to the community and an act of injustice to the country. We have good friends, who will doubtless differ with us in our determination, but let them be patient. We stop here, because bribery is rampant in the politics of the county; general political demoralization is everywhere to be seen; lying, deception, and intrigue are unfolded in all political transactions; the honest are on an unequal footing with the dishonest; and last, but not least, free speech is torn from our party flag, and "free whisky" made to take its place. While these things continue, we rest. Others may follow the men who have run the party into this miserable rut, but we shall not. Time only will tell us who is right.

The ticket nominated on the 27th has the names of some excellent men upon it. These will doubtless receive the full vote of the party. Others, again, whose names are found there, do not possess the confidence of all the Republicans of the county. They will probably be cut some, but unless forced to do otherwise, we shall simply let them alone.

THE enforcement act, passed last year just prior to the adjournment of Congress, giving the President the power to suspend the habeas corpus, and declare martial law, will expire with this session of Congress. Desperate efforts have been made during the last two weeks to re-enact or continue the law in force. The first of these was by a motion, from old Ben Butler; that when Congress adjourned it should be until the last Wednesday of November next. He declared the right to suspend the writ of habeas corpus was a political necessity. That is, unless Grant had the right continued until after the next Presidential election, of arresting and imprisoning people without the possibility of their escaping, he would be defeated at the polls. This attempt failed. A new bill was introduced, but it was so far down on the calendar that it could not be reached without a suspension of the rules, which requires a two-third vote, and the Democrats would not agree to a suspension. The Conklings and Chandlers of the Senate are co-operating with "old Ben Butler" of the House, to prevent the passage of important appropriation bills, and thus force the call of an extra session of Congress immediately on the adjournment of the present one. Gen. Horace Porter, the President's private Secretary, was on the floor of the House last Wednesday, urging the passage of the Ku-Klux bill as a party necessity. When a President resorts to such unwarrantable and tyrannical measures to secure political success, it is high time people should pause before re-nominating him. But, he will be renominated. The party ropes are too skilfully laid to prevent the possibility of an honest expression of public sentiment at the Philadelphia Convention.

THE question of withdrawing the consequential damages claim of the United States presented to the Board of International Arbitrators at Geneva, has involved the Administration of Gen. Grant in considerable trouble. In the first place such claims ought not to have been made, under the treaty, unless of right they ought to be assessed and paid. After full deliberation on the part of the learned counsel employed, and the sanction of the Cabinet of the President consequential damages for the destruction of property of the United States and a prolongation of the rebellion, by reason of the gross neglect or wilful connivance of the authorities of Great Britain in permitting the building and fitting up of vessels of war in her ports to pray upon our commerce, was thought to be an equitable claim, and as such was in due form laid before the Board at Geneva. From this there should have been no backing down. But England denied that such claims were contemplated by the treaty of Washington, and declared she would withdraw her case from before the Board at Geneva unless such claims were withdrawn by the United States, and sent us a copy of a supplemental article to the treaty of Washington to the effect that in any future war neither nation should be liable to consequential damages to commerce occasioned by the neglect or wrongful act of the other. The cabinet laid this before the U. S. Senate, which in its meekness advised the President to ratify it with slight amendments. It was done to order. Great Britain replies: it is still unsatisfactory and she shall withdraw from Geneva. What further humbling is in store for this nation remains to be developed. We cannot but think if we had a President who would speak to England, as Jackson did to Louis Phillipe on the question of French spoilation claims, after considerable diplomacy—"Pay these claims, Louis Phillipe, or by the eternal I'll make reprisals on your commerce!"—there would be little further parley; the matter would soon be settled. England will blow and bluster; but she will suffer considerably before she will fight. A great deal is said of the comparative weakness of our navy and the strength of that of Great Britain. There is a disparity, but our facilities are equal to the emergency. We like the spirit evinced in the chaste speech of the Kentuckian, during the time the boundary question between Canada and the United States was on the tapis, when it was proposed that disputed territory should be mutally occupied by citizens under treaty stipulations. He opposed it and said: "What! talk of treaty occupation of a territory over which the Great American Eagle has flown? I despise treaty occupation! I hate treaty occupation! England splurges about her navy, and says she is mistress of the seas, durn it ain't we masters of it, could'nt we dig a drain from the Mississippi river into the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky and dry up the durn'd old ocean in six weeks? Then where would be the navy she splurges about? It would be no where!"

WHEN the Ku-Klux, or the suspension of habeas corpus bill was defeated in the House of Representatives on Thursday last, by some twenty nine Republicans voting with the Democrats, the outrageous scheme to enable the President to control the elections and perpetuate his power by martial law was not abandoned. The administration schemers are fertile in expedients. The Joint Select Committee on Southern outrages was called together by Butler, who on the defeat of his bill in the House, hurried over to the Senate and had it introduced and referred to that Committe which had no rightful jurisdiction over its subject matter, but which could be manipulated to report it favorably so that it could be got before the House on Wednesday. They reported it—the habeas corpus bill—with the civil rights bill attached as a float. The Force bill gives the President the power to appoint, through his partisans, the Circuit Judges, Supervisors of Election for every polling place in the United States, and Deputy Marshals to arrest and imprison any person whom these supervisors may accuse of fraudulent voting. It overturns all state election laws, and places Federal officers at every ballot box. The Ku-Klux bill authorizes the President to suspend the habeas corpus throughout the country, and use the army to arrest whom he pleases. The two measures belong together, and are the outgrowth of the same desperate determination that the Government shall be kept in the hands of the present Administration at any cost. It was fought off for that day. A leading Republican member of the House said to a friend that he could not escape the belief that the sole object in passing this bill was to enable the President to control the electoral vote of the South. He did not think it would be put in force in the North, where the people would feel outraged to see Federal officers managing the election; but in the South he feared it would be carried into effect and that the election would be manipulated so as to give the vote of every Southern State to Grant.

THE Military Committee of the U. S. House of Representatives informed that body last week, that all the brigade, division, corps and army headquarters' reports made during the late war, had been abstracted from the war Department within the last four years. Thus a record for an official hisory of the war—written by the prominent actors in the campaigns and battles immediately after their occurrence—are lost to the country through the negligence or carelessness of those in charge of the war Department. The Chief Clerk says he thinks Gen. Adam Badeau has possession of those official papers. Their loss is irreparable, for with them perish the most authentic material for future historians of the great struggle for the Union, and tampering with them is poisoning the very fountain of history. It is high time the Augean stables were cleansed, and honest officials placed in office.

HERE AND THERE.

—By order of the President, the several departments at Washington were closed on the 30th instant to allow the employees to participate in the ceremony of decorating the graves of the Union soldiers in the various cemetries around Washington.

—Three negroes named Edward Parker, West Hall and Cash Clay, got into a fight in a disreputable saloon and dance house in St. Louis, on Monday night. Parker was killed. Hall severely stabbed and his skull fractured, and Clay seriously cut.

—A freight train on the Orange, Alexandria & Manassas Railroad ran over a cow about eight miles from Alexandria, Va., on Monday evening, throwing the engine and cars off the track, killing two brakemen and seriously wounding the fireman.

—It is asserted that while the officers of the school ship Mercury, recently returned to New York from a cruise, report the loss of only two boys, some of the crew say they lost eight boys. Two or three jumped overboard off the coast of Brazil, and another jumped overboard while close to New York.

—A family named Sharpless, consisting of twelve brothers and sisters, whose combined ages amount to over 640 years, and all married but one, are now living in Middleton, Delaware county, within five miles of their old homestead, where their father was born in 1785.

—The French Government has wisely concluded that the working classes must no longer be entirely ignored. A commission is to be appointed to inquire into the condition of the workingmen, seeking the co-operation of those who may be of service in its labors.

—The Democrats of Washington county held their convention on Monday last, and nominated the following ticket: Constitutional Convention, William Hopkins; Prothonotary, D. M. Donehoo; Clerk, Samuel Ruth; Register, I. Y. Hamilton, Recorder, John P. Charlton; Commissioner, A. A. Stockdale; Auditor, J. Irwin Knox; Directors of the Poor, John Bower.

—The Democrats of Bedford county, have nominated the following ticket: Prothonotary, John Fluck; Register and Recorder, J. N. Alsip; Sheriff, Isaac Earnest; Commissioner, Daniel Fletcher; Poor Director, Henry P. Diehl; Coroner, John A. Cessna; Auditor, Wesley Bennet; Instructed for E. F. Kerr, for Senator, and J. M. Reynolds, for Representative.

—A young girl by the name of Shantler, residing about three miles north of Mechanicsburg, O., committed suicide by taking strychnine Thursday morning. She died within twenty minutes after taking it. The cause was because her father opposed her lover. She was seventeen years old.

—Within the past few days millions of locusts, covering every tree, bush and shrub, have appeared in the barrens between Tullahoma and Estell Springs, on the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad. They are traveling northwardly. Great fears are entertained by the farmers that their crops will be ruined by them.

—During a performance of the Queen City circus at Decatur, Ala., on Monday last, a balloon was sent up with a rope attached to prevent it from going beyond a limited distance. When it reached its height the rope gave way, and the balloon, with Prof. Atkins, of Cincinnati, who was in the basket, was swiftly blown away. Soon after, the balloon losing its gas, fell into the Tennessee river and Prof. Atkins was drowned.

—Before hearing of the latest letter of Judge Stanley Matthews, whose bewildering changes of mind have alternately made him a Liberal, a Democrat, and an Administration upholder, The Chicago Tribune said: "There is one thing more for Mr. Stanley Matthews to take back, and that is his motion, on the third day of the Convention, that "this second Declaration of Independence (meaning the platform) be adopted by acclamation!" And after he shall have taken this back, it will be quite in order for him to retract and continue his crab waltz ad libitum."

—Killing Communists continues the chief official industry of the Versailles Government. Whether its practice will commend the Republic to the good opinion of mankind, or help to pay the debt to Germany, or restore the waste of war, or "get even" with the Prussians, or make Paris again the center of civilization, is a question for the special consideration of President Thiers and his associates. In the opinion of the outside world it will do none of those things. It is not necessary to admire Communists in order to condemn this untimely bloodshed.

—A correspondent of the Cincin'n Enquirer has been on a tour of political observation in Kentucky, and represents men and journals throughout the State as zealously in favor of the Cincinnati nominees. He made inquiries of nearly all the conspicuous men of the State, including Col. Breckenridge, Cousin of John C. Coombs, Col. Morgan, Col. Mason Brown, Gen. Robison, and others.—These gentlemen were all free to admit the overwhelming enthusiasm for Greeley and Brown, and the absolute madness of attempting to play false with the Liberals at Baltimore.

—A letter writer who has visited the burned districts in New York and Pennsylvania says "it is not possible at present to even estimate the immense loss caused in Sullivan, Delaware, and Ulster counties, New York; Sussex county, New Jersey; and Pike, Wayne, and Munroe counties, Pennsylvania; but it cannot fall short of many millions of dollars. This will include the destruction of crops, timber, cut and uncut; saw mills, with the stock of machinery and logs and boards, bark mills, bridges, plank roads, farm houses, barns, sheds, cattle, domestic animals, stored produce, fences, and several small villages where the destruction of individual property has been almost complete. Fortunately I can hear of no lives being lost.

(For the Beaver Argus.)

SOUTH BEAVER TP., June 3d 1872.

EDITOR ARGUS: I desire space in your columns to place myself in a proper light before the people of the county; and thank them for the courtesy, hospitality and kindness extended to me during the late canvass. Also to thank them for the frank, hearty and manly support tendered me; because it was free, bold and honorable. This consideration is pleasurable and satisfactory, and will ever be gratefully remembered.

To those of my fellow-citizens who did not support me, I can simply say it was their right and privilege so to do, and honorable opposition is entitled to respect; but I have no respect for that which is neither manly, truthful nor honorable.

A word to my friends by way of apology for offering myself as a candidate. I had supposed that if a citizen of Beaver county, who was moderately respectable and who had always supported the government by taxation and in whatever was proper and right, saw fit to place himself in the position of a candidate for office he had a right to do so. I supposed, under these circumstances, there would be no impropriety in asking the support of his fellow-citizens. I supposed when I placed my name before the public I was entitled to equal rights with other citizens. I did not know I had no right to ask my acquaintances to vote for me, without first having obtained the permission of a man who had been in the Legislature. I did not know that I could not accept a polite invitation from an old acquaintance to stop over night with him without first having obtained a permit from an ex-Legislator or his master. I did not know that in order to secure a nomination in the Republican party of this county, it was necessary to sell out to a certain "ring" by promising it allegiance, and complying with the behests of its leaders; one of whom is the ex-Legislator above alluded to; or, failing in this, be denounced and proscribed throughout the county.

The statements circulated prior to the nomination about my belonging to any man or set of men; or that I was under promise or pledge to carry out any particular measures for any man or set of men, are all utterly false; and were concocted solely for the purpose of defeating me.

I close by saying I believe in the Democratic idea taught in the Declaration of Independence—equal rights and equal laws for all, whether high or low, rich or poor.

S. G. CAUGHEY.

SKETCH OF MR. BUCKALEW.

Charles R. Buckalew, the gentleman selected by the Democratic Convention of Pennsylvania, yesterday, for the position of Governor, is a man of the first reputation, not only in his own State but throughout the nation. Born in Columbia County, Penn., in 1821, and in 1843 was admitted to the practice of law before the bar of his native State. He filled the office of District-Attorney for his county between 1846 and 47, and in 1850 entered the State Senate, where he remained for six years, serving meantime as a National Commissioner to ratify a treaty with Paraguay. In 1857, he served as Chairman of the State Democratic Committee, and was appointed to revise the Penal Code of his State. These positions were relinquished to accept the place of a Minister Resident in Ecuador, on Mr. Buchanan's appointment. He remained abroad but a short time, and in 1863 was elected United States Senator by the Pennsylvania Legislature, and on all the war issues acted with the Republican party. His term expiring in 1867, he returned to his law practice, until he returned to the State Senate two years ago.

Mr. Buckalew is of the conservative school of politics, although he strongly advocates the cumulative principle in voting and has devoted much study and considerable time to the propagation of this idea. Senator Buckalew bears an irreproachable character throughout his State among men of both parties, and it is agreed that he will poll a large share of the Republican vote as against Hartranft irrespective of the Liberals who will probably indorse him.—Tribune.

PERILS OF PETROLEUM.

Two Men Burned to Death and Two Severely Singed.

The Tittusville Herald of Wednesday says: On Saturday night last a dreadful burning accident took place at Well No. 4 of Spears, Ormsby & Geider, on Grass Flatts, near St. Petersburg. It appears that the workmen were engaged in reaming, when a sudden flow of oil and gas took place, and an explosion occurred in the derrick, blowing the men outside to a considerable distance, and setting them on fire. Two of them, Andy Lavens and Robert Bone, were burned to death in a short time. Alexander Urquhart and Charles Lavens were severely burned, but will recover. The well remained on fire until Sunday evening, when it was extinguished and connections made. No blame is attributed to any person; it was one of those sudden and unexpected occurrences which could neither be foreseen nor avoided. The remains of Mr. Lavens deceased, were sent to his friends in Philadelphia.—Mr. Bone was an Englishman, and had no relatives in this country.

A war is raging fiercely in Africa between the King Oko-Jumbo, supposed to be a relation to Munbo Jumbo, and Ja-Ja. The General of the former, Warrabo, has been defeated by the latter, and all the prisoners taken were roasted and eaten, agreeably to a very disagreeable custom prevailing in Ja-Ja's dominion, where it is usual to live off the enemy. Meanwhile, the war goes on fiercely and the bills and vales echo with the sound of clashing arms, and the smoke of roasting captives sickens the noon-day sky. All Africa stands aghast, and watches with breathless interest the movements of the rival armies on the banks of Andony. Even Europe and America are interested. A prominent English paper gives a paragraph to the war, and long before this, "Stanley" has probably made his appearance on the field as a war correspondent, and we shall not be surprised to hear from Dr. Livingstone, on his return, that barbarian ignorance of the rights of neutrals has given the venturesome reporter a prominent but most undesirable place at one of these feasts.

Forty-Second Congress.

SECOND SESSION.

SENATE, May 27.—The bill regulating the construction of bridges across the Mississippi river, was passed. A bill to pay the war claims of Kentucky passed. The tariff bill was considered and some amendments agreed to. The Brazilian subsidy was defeated. The bill to protect National Cemetries passed.

HOUSE.—A substitute for the bill relating to pensions was agreed to and passed.

It fixes the monthly pensions for disabilities as follows: Loss or total disability of both hands, loss of sight of one eye—the sight of the other having previously lost—loss or total disability of both feet, or other total disability rendering the person utterly helpless, $40; loss of one hand or foot, or total disability of the same, $30; any other disability, rendering a person unfit for manual labor, $20; loss of hearing of both ears, or any other disability not provided for $15. A resolution extending the session to the 3d of June, was adopted. The report of the Conference Committee on the Post-office appropriation bill was agreed to.

SENATE, May 28.—The Vice President presented the House concurrent resolution to adjourn June 3; concurred in. The tax bill was taken up and debated at some length, but no conclusion was arrived at.

HOUSE.—A motion was made and rejected to suspend the rules and pass Senate bill extending the Ku-Klux bill until the end of the next session. The bill to revive the navigation and commercial interests of the United States was taken up and recommitted. The conference report on the supplementary civil rights bill was made and agreed to. A bill was reported and passed to amend the bankruptcy act, giving the appointment and removal of registers in bankruptcy to the United States Circuit court, and making various other alterations in the law.

SENATE, May 29.—The bill to amend the soldiers and sailors homestead act passed. The tariff and tax bill was then taken up; an amendment fixing the tax on tobacco at twenty-four cents was agreed to; the provision adopted by the House abolishing the storage of tobacco for export in bonded warehouses was also agreed to, with an amendment providing that all tobacco in bonded warehouses when this act takes effect shall pay no tax.

HOUSE.—The bill to issue assignable land grants for homesteads to soldiers and sailors went over. Nothing else of general interest transpired.

SENATE, May 30.—A bill to suspend the writ of habeas corpus, was presented, (as a party necessity). A joint resolution was introduced to elect President by a direct vote of the people, and abolishing the Vice Presidency. The tariff was then discussed up to the hour of adjournment.

HOUSE.—Mr. Butler being informed by the Speaker that there was no possibility of compelling a vote on the bill to suspend the habeas corpus and establish martial law at the up of the President, moved to adjourn; but finally agreed to a recess until evening; which was to be devoted to debate.

SENATE, May 31.—Mr. Sumner introduced a series of resolutions, recomending arbitration for settling national disputes instead of war. The sundry civil appropriation bill came up, and Mr. Sumner moved its postponement, and availed himself of the opportunity to vindicate his course relative to the French Arms sales.—Mr. Schurz attempted the same thing but was choked off by dilatory motions. The Senate receded from its amendments to the army appropriation bill, and it passed.

HOUSE.—An attempt was made to reach the habeas corpus bill, but it failed. A number of private and local bills passed. A Committee of Conference on the tariff was ordered. Having disposed of about half the bills on the Speaker's table the House adjourned.

SENATE, June 1.—Various motions relative to extending the session were discussed and finally the joint resolution to adjourn June 3d was rescinded, and one from the House, to extend the session till the 10th inst was concurred in. No other business of general interest.

HOUSE.—Fixing the day of adjournment on the 10th inst., so as to afford Senators an opportunity to try if they cannot save Grant from the damaging effects of Sumner's and Schurz' late speeches, was all that transpired.

Victories for Cincinnati.

It is barely four weeks since the Cincinnati Convention met. That Convention nominated a ticket which bids fair to sweep the country in November, and administer the Government for the next four years. But whatever may be the fate of the ticket, the triumph of the Convention has already begun. See the growing roll of its victories:—

I. Till the Cincinnati Convention met, no entreaties could induce the Administration majority in Congress to think of any measure of Amnesty and Reconciliation for the South. But already startled by the strength Cincinnati develops, Congress has hastened to accord in a fortnight what for seven years it has persistently, defiantly, most recklessly and wickedly denied. At last we have Amnesty—not generously complete, but immeasurably better than none.

II. Till the Cincinnati Convention met, it was generally understood that the President meant to have the advantage, in his canvass for re-election, of the legal power to suspend the habeas corpus, and muster the bayonets to his support. Even after Cincinnati, the Senate (now, by reason of its Pomeroys and Caldwells and Conklings, the real lower House,) persisted in renewing the Ku-Klux bill for his benefit; but the House has clearly shown its unwillingness to take another step in that direction. Cincinnati has prevented Presidential elections under martial law in the hands of a Presidential candidate.

III. Till Cincinnati, Gen. Schurz was a German renegade and mercenary, who ought to have his leg tied to a chair. Now the Administration organs think him an accomplished and conciencious statesman. Till Cincinnati the bailing of Jefferson Davis after he had been for two years refused the right of the commonest felon, that of a trial, was a monstrous crime. Now the Renomination State Convention hastens to select one of the bondsmen as a delegate at large to Philadelphia. Till Cincinnati, the political support of men who had once been Rebels, was held a sure sign of infamy. Now we see men like Mosby welcomed to the White House. And so, till Cincinnati, Democrats were still hesitating as to whether they should not fight over the old hopeless fight for issues that ceased to be vital or possible after Appomattox. Now we have them, as at Rochester, manfully planting themselves on the highest republican ground;—as in Connecticut, uniting with Liberal Republicans in the most practical, commonsense fashion, to get, not the man of their choice, but only the man who had resisted some of the administration measures which Liberal Republicans and Democrats alike disapproved. Administration temper, Democratic principals and policy,—all are alike improved by Cincinnati.

—If now the Administration could only be made to see that the main business of Custom-house officers is not to pull wires for a Presidential renomination, and that a Civil Service Reform should show a little performance along with the swelling promise—! But let us at least give thanks to Cincinnati for what it has already brought us.—Tribune.

That article of army discipline which requires the soldier to first obey, and afterwards complain if the order is unjust, should be adopted as the chief law of home government. So far from the rule of exacting obedience being subject to the condition of showing reasons, we believe a parent with a strong will, although it be a perverse one, will train a child better than a parent of reasonable mind; tainted by infirmity of purpose. The parent's perversity, unless it be unkind or ill-tempered, will not occasion the child half so much uneasiness in the case, as the child will suffer from those perversities of his own which will spring up in the other. Habits of instant and mechanical obedience gives rest to the child, and spares his health and temper, while a recusant or dawdling obedience will keep him distracted in propensity, and bring a perpetual pressure on his nerves and on his mental and bodily strength.

John Chinaman.—Ah Chuck, a good looking specimen of the Mongolian race, arrived in Beaver Falls on last Friday, in company with John Reeves, who has just returned from China. Mr. Chuck is about forty-five years of age and is quite a large, athletic looking personage He was dressed in a very becoming suit of blue cloth, cut in loose blouse or Zouave style. His feet were encased in a pair of neat sandals. His appearance would impress one in his favor, having an intelligent and business-like look. Some persons asserted that he was one of the partners in a large Tea-house in San Francisco; others that he was a coolie contractor, but of this we know not. He seemed to be very good natured, and spoke the words, yes, no and good bye, in good English. REP.

A GREAT many persons complain about corns and bunions, but never stop to inquire what causes them; now here we have it, nearly the whole cause is in not having Boots and Shoes that fit neatly. If you wish your feet free from them, get your shoes of Umstead & Hartzog, who will guarantee a good fit. They have just received a nice assortment of Shoes, Gaiters and slippers, call and see them, Broadway, New Brighton.

Two mines of the Delaware and Hudson Company, one at Carbondale and the other at Olyphant, Pa., have suspended operations in order to reduce the production of coal. The two mines throw out of employment 700 men and boys, and decrease the production of the company 3,000 tons per day.

A TO FARMERS.—Foutz's Horse & Cattle Powders, Harvell's Condition Powders, Sheridan's Cavalry Powder, Frossfield Vegetable Powders, Gargling Oil, (genuine, Tobias' Venetian Liniment, Neats-foot Bone Liniment. Rape.—The Pittsburgh Dispatch, of Saturday, says a certain William King, residing at Baden, Beaver county, made an information before Ennis Hill, Justice of the Peace, of the county mentioned, on behalf of his daughter, Mary Ann King, against Joseph Victorine, a full-blooded Mexican, who was in his employ, for rape. The offense is alleged to have been committed a few days ago. Yesterday, King called at the Mayor's office, and procuring the services of Detective John Herron succeeded in capturing Victorine, who is a lad apparently about seventeen. The prisoner has been sent back to Baden for justice. Mr. King is an engineer on the Fort Wayne Road.

A WARNING.—The approach of warm weather is indicative of the approach of diseases peculiar to warm weather, such as Cholera Morbus, Grainy, Diarrhœa, &c. Now, the safest and best remedy for these diseases is L. Maginnis' Persian Oleine, which is kept for sale by the following persons in this vicinity: S. C. Hannen, Charles Huth, S. R. Campbell, and Cox & Darragh, Rochester; John Moore, Beaver; Gilliland & Kerr, New Brighton; Mr. Irwin, Smith's Ferry.

Scarcely worth the candle, but this is the estimation Hays, of the Press, is held abroad:

The Beaver County Ring intrudes itself into Venango county politics to gratify a little personal spite at Hon. C. W. Gillilan. J. B. Hays is the editor of the Press, and resided in Meadville. He left the party and joined the Andy Johnson crew in 1865, and as a reward for his treason got appointed Assessor of this District. When Mr. Gillilan was elected in 1866 and the Republican party again in power, Hays was "busted" as he deserved. He is a chronic growler and bolter, and has an itching for the spoils of office. Where you find the office-seekers there you find Hays every time.—Venango Citizen.

Five Hundred Thousand.—500,000 Bottles of Green's August Flower has been sold in this State in three months. We only ask you to go to the drug stores of Hugo Andriessen, Beaver, S. Hannen, Rochester, or Gilliland & Kerr, New Brighton, Pa., and get a bottle free of charge, or a regular size at seventy-five cents. Every Bottle warranted to cure Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint, Sick-headache, Costiveness, Heartburn, Waterbrash, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Impure Blood, or deranged Stomach and Liver. One fountain there is, whose deep vein has only just begun to throw up its silver drops among mankind—a fountain which will allay the thirst of millions, and will give to those who drink from it peace and joy. It is knowledge; the fountain of intellectual cultivation, which gives health to manhood, makes clear the vision, brings joy to his life, and breathes over his soul's destiny a deep repose. Go, and drink therefrom, thou whom fortune has not favored, and thou wilt soon find thyself rich! Thou mayest go forth into the world, and find thyself everywhere at home; thou canst cultivate it in thine own little chamber; thy friends are ever around thee, and carry on wise conversations with thee; nature, antiquity, heaven are accessible to thee! The industrious kingdoms of the art, the works of man, and rainbow, and music records, offer to thy soul hospitality.

Sensation in Plants.—M. Figure believes that a plant has the sensation of pleasure and of pain. Cold, for instance, he says, affects it painfully. We see it contract, or so to speak, shiver under the sudden application of temperature. An abnormal elevation of temperature evidently causes it to suffer, for in many vegetables, when the heat is excessive, the leaves droop on the stalk, fold themselves together and wither; when the cool of the evening comes, the leaves straighten, and the plant resumes a serene and undisturbed appearance. Drought causes evident suffering to plants, for when they are watered after a prolonged drought they show signs of satisfaction.

The sensitive plant, touched by the finger, or only visited by a current of unwelcome air, folds its petals and contracts itself. The botanist Desfontaines saw one which he was conveying in a carriage fold its leaves while the vehicle was in motion and expand them when it stopped,—a proof that it was the motion that disturbed it.

Sensation in plants is of the same kind as in animals, since electricity kills and crushes them as it does animals. Plants may also be put to sleep by washing them in opium dissolved in water, and hydrocyanic acid destroys their vitality as quickly as it does that of animals.—Scribner's for June.

Castoria is substitute for Castor Oil—a family physic which is pleasant to take and does not distress or gripe, but is sure to operate when all other remedies have failed. It is a purely vegetable preparation, containing neither Minerals, Morphine nor Alcohol, the result of fifteen years experimenting by Dr. Samuel Pitcher. It is perfectly harmless and far more effective than Pills, Narcotic Syrups or Castor Oil. By soothing the system it produces natural sleep, and is particularly adapted to crying or teething children. It kills Worms, cures Stomach Ache, Constupation, Flatulency and Derangement of the Liver. No family can afford to be without this article. It costs but 50 cents—ask your druggist to get it for you, and he will always keep it.

A Simple Rule.—Formation of the plural noun often annoys writers, and printers have their brains racked many times to know whether the copy before them is correct. Here is one simple rule, which is easily remembered, and if observed by writers would save printers much trouble: Nouns ending in y form their plurals regularly by adding s; as key, keys; monkey, monkeys; journey, journeys; attorney, attorneys; money, moneys. Ignorance leads some persons to write attornies and monies, instead of the correct spelling.

POLITICAL.—Mr. Henry goes to Congress, Mr. Rutan to the Senate, and Mr. White will be our Sheriff; but for a fine suit of clothes go to H. Steinfeld's, Broadway, New Brighton.

Some surprise was occasioned in journalistic circles here yesterday by the General Conference of the M. E. Church making a change in the editorial management of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate, by which Rev. S. H. Nesbitt, D. D., retires and Rev. William Hunter, D. D., ascends the tripod. Dr. Nesbitt has held the position for the past twelve years, during which time he has lifted the Advocate from a losing, to a satisfactorily remunerative basis, and has withal established a reputation as a vigorous trenchant writer, and an able editorial manager, not excelled by any in the Church; but having held the position four years longer than has heretofore been the rule, he at last has fallen under the inexorable law of rotation in office. None will regret the change personally, more than those of the Journalistic fraternity among whom he has held a high and enviable place, and in dropping out of the ranks, he bears with him the highest esteem and good will of all his former associates.

The new editor, Rev. Dr. Hunter, for many years was one of the faculty of Allegheny College, and is regarded as one of the best writers and most finished classical scholars in the Church. In former years he held this editorship, and went from it to the College. For a year or so past he has been engaged in pastoral work, filling some of the most important positions in the Pittsburgh Conference. If a change must be made, no better successor to Dr. Nesbitt could have been chosen.—Pitts. Gazette.

In the House there is every prospect of active filibustering to defeat the enforcement bill. The Democrats declare they will not yield, and that they have power to prevent action. On the other hand, Pierce, of Mississippi, threatens to object to everything else, and so throw over important pending bills and make an extra session necessary. In such plan he will have considerable support in each house. Unless more progress is made to-morrow than to-day, either the extension of the present session or an extra one will be necessary. Some of the administration men desire an extension to the first of July.—Ex.

A Tornado's Doings.—Between four and five o'clock on Wednesday evening, says the Greenville, Mercer county, Argus, a tornado passed across the valley a short distance above town, taking an easterly course, which did a vast amount of damage to dwellings, fences and forests. It was seen at the time mentioned—for it was a thing of substance, having the proverbial funnel shape, its outlines defined by the darkness of its great density—It was seen proceeding from the hill on the west side swiftly across the river, taking up in a swath perhaps a quarter of a mile wide, every object it encountered. After snatching the trees bald-headed, and juggling, in good Japanese style, with the fence rails, it struck the house of Mr. Phillips, on the Jamestown road, lifted the roof completely off, and twisted the frame into an utter immutability. It then wrapped its trunk around his apple trees, as old Hannibal or any other elephant would have done, jerked them out of root with the greatest ease. It next struck the house and barn of Mr. Thomson Williamson, a few miles beyond, serving them in the same manner. The house it picked up and carried some thirty feet, the concussion as it struck bursting the doors and, windows out, and the still greater concussion as it struck terra firma again, demolishing the kitchen part completely. Although there were some thirty persons in the house, a quilting party being held at the time, no one, strange to relate, was seriously injured. The roofs of both barn and house are wanting to this day, they having literally "gone up." The damage to timber and fences was immense, the former being generally devastated, and the latter carried away all along the course of the inverted maelstrom. Of the further progress of the monster we have not heard, though it is likely that it continued its uprooting and overturning career for some distance beyond. So far as learned, no one was hurt.

Decoration Day.—The anniversary of the decoration of soldiers' graves was ushered in very unfavorably by showers of rain in the morning, which had the appearance of being continuous throughout the day, but about 10 o'clock the clouds dispersed, and the sun and wind so dried the earth as to render the afternoon not only tolerable but even favorable for the exercises of the day.

The citizens and soldiers of Beaver and vicinity assembled at the Court House in this borough at 11 o'clock p. m., and organized by appointing Lieut. Eben Allison Marshal of the day. The children of the Soldiers' Orphan School of Phillipsburg, in uniform, under charge of Rev. W. G. Taylor, Principal, joined the citizens at the Court House. A very eloquent and eminently appropriate address, on the occasion, was delivered by Rev. D. P. Lowary. The following ode, written by Miss Maggie M. Taylor, was then sung by the Soldiers' Orphans:

Honor the brave true-hearted:—
The heroes of our land;
Who from home and kindred parted,
A noble, patriot band.
Bring flowers for those who have left us,
Who fought, and bled and fell;
Who never more shall rally
Round the flag they loved so well.

A monument of polished white
We dedicate to-day:
Reared, not to keep their memories bright,
They shall be green alway;
But as a nation's tribute,
In honor of her dead,
Who, even though it cost their lives,
To peace and victory led.

And may God in goodness keep and bless
Him who was first to lend
A helping hand in time of need,
And strength and succor send.
And, even when old age comes on,
Shall Soldiers' Orphans then,
Hold Governor Curtin's memory dear;
Who has done so much for them.

And long live Governor Geary;
The Soldier, Patriot, Friend;
Who has never grown weary,
But faithful to the end.
Brave Volunteers, who fearless fray,
He labors for our good:
Watchful, that Soldiers' Orphans may
Have friends, and Homes, and Food.

Strong be the arm of those who shared
Our fathers' toil and pain,
In the camp or in the prison cell,
Or on the battle plain.
May the Grand Army still be true,
And self-defending be;
That when we are men and women too,
We may help defend our laws.

And, in our nation's darkest days,
When treason, strife and blood,
Almost, o'erwhelmed our glorious land
With overpowering flood;
Then Beaver county's volunteers,
With hearts and wills of oak,
Went forth resolved to do or die,
Till slavery's chains were broke.

And all our other friends are dear,
Who, though they did not go,
'Twas not because they felt a fear
To strike the deadly blow,
Whose kindness to all has been
Magnificent and great:
Who made the Soldiers' Orphans wards
Of the Great Keystone State.

After which a procession was formed—preceded by a band of marshal music and United States Flag—and marched to the old burying ground, where the graves of J. P. Carson, William Morrow, Wm. Thomas, Alex. Purvis, Lieutenant Henry Hurst, Wm. Hall, Col. John Q. Anderson, J. F. Kennedy, Lieutenant J. D. Stokes, Taylor M. Stokes, J. M. Johnston, Wm. Jack, Frazier M. Dillon, Wm. Davis, Lieut. A. F. Cairns, John Wilson Alvin Greenlee, Howell Walton, Richard Walton, were decorated. Rev. W. G. Taylor, Principal of the Soldiers' Orphan School, then delivered a stirring address; after which the procession was reformed and marched to the new cemetry, where the graves of J. M. M'Creery, Dr. Charles H. Stowe, Col. R. P. Roberts, and Dr. David Minnis were decorated. Rev. W. H. Locke, of the M. E. Church, made a few remarks suitable to the occasion.

The following citizens and soldiers' committees were then appointed to take charge of the preparations for duly observing the anniversary, May 30th, 1873:

ON PART OF CITIZENS:

Milton Lawrence, Marmaduke Wilson, Joseph C. Wilson, John Grubing, sr., John F. Draco.

ON PART OF SOLDIERS:

J. Weyand, E. Allison, J. H. Cunningham, W. Tallon, James Darragh.

After the close of decoration services, the soldiers, preceded by music and the National Flag, escorted the Soldiers' Orphans to the east end of town, where, after saluting the colors, they broke ranks.

Advice to Young Men.—We find the following advice to young men in the Altoona Tribune. Young men, get married; you will never be worth a last year's robin's nest until you do. The fruits of disobedience are misery and misfortune, and you will never be truly happy while in disobedience to God's commandment to our first parents in the Garden. Remember that there are seventy-five thousand more marriageable ladies in the United States than gentlemen, and three hundred thousand more females than males. Imagine yourself at the bar of judgment with seventy-five thousand spinsters with toothless jaws and tongues sharpened on the grindstone of temper, and honed on the strap of unrequited affection as your accusers; surely your chance for eternal bliss would not be very flattering. And furthermore, remember that unperformed duties always come home to roost, so you will be likely to go through the world with holes in the heels of your stockings, and your elbows out, and finally die unregretted and be forgotten like any other brute.

Opium Intemperance.—We learn that the consumption of opium, as a substitute for alcoholic beverages, is increasing to an alarming extent even in this neighborhood. Would it not be well to inveigh against this species of intemperance in connection with that of whisky? In whisky-prohibitory Massachusetts the returns from twenty-four cities and towns show that the consumption of opium is practised to an alarming extent. In some places the habit has been acquired from using physicians' prescriptions during sickness; but the drug is mostly taken as a stimulant; and as a substitute for intoxicating liquors. In one town the reason given for its use is that the drug is "more genteel" than alcohol and in another because the consumers are not willing to "risk their reputation for temperance by taking alcoholic beverages." In Charlestown there are two people who each consume thirty ounces of laudanum per month, and several others who use from one to eight ounces per month. In Boston opium eating is general, one man consuming an ounce every secular day and two ounces on Sunday. A regular customer of one druggist there is a noted temperance lecturer. But the champion opium eater would appear to be in Swampscott, where that drug is used by many people in place of rum. One man there consumes "two ounces daily as a stimulant, and attends to his business quite regularly."

The Chicago Post says a characteristic of the umbrella is its Protean power of changing shapes. You may leave a bran new mulberry silk with an ivory and rosewood handle at any public gathering, taking therefor a check, and within three hours it will transform itself into light blue or faded brown cotton, somewhat less in size than a circus tent, with a handle like a telegraph pole, and five fractured ribs.

A Good Templar Case.—The Lancaster Intelligencer says: A mandamus issued against Simeon B. Chase, Grand Worthy Chief Templar, and L. Ellen Wright, Grand Worthy Secretary of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars of Pennsylvania, commanding them to grant, issue and deliver to E. W. Kirby a certificate of his election as Representative of the Grand Lodge to the Right Worthy Grand Lodge, was argued on Saturday before our court and decided this morning against Mr. Kirby, it being proved that he had been first suspended and then expelled from the Order, on account of a crime for which he had been convicted by a civil court.

The Superintendency.—EDITOR ARGUS: We see published in the New Brighton Press of May 17th, a communication purporting to come from a spectator to the doings of the late Convention of School Directors of Beaver county, in which the writer does grave injustice to that body.

He charges that the election of Superintendent was brought about by deception, suppression of speech, intrigue, and illegal proxy voting.

"It cannot," (says the writer) "be expected that men of different political faith will rest quietly beneath the smart of a defeat, and the taunts of those who are inclined to chuckle over a victory gained by deception, suppression of speech in the convention and intrigue." Fiercer still, "And true also," (says the enraged author) "that in one or two instances there was illegal proxy voting in his favor." Grave charges! Startling developments!

The writer himself is evidently smarting, may it not be from some other cause than mere political defeat? But as nothing is gained by denunciation, and wholesale misrepresentation, let us appeal to facts. By these we stand or fall. First, we heartily agree with the writer, as to the impropriety of permitting political and religious sectarianism to enter the schools of our county. We are as loud in our condemnation of this policy as he dare be.

On this question there is no issue between us, we go with him hand in hand. The question then to be decided is: was the election of Superintendent, by the late convention, the result of partisan intrigue? For observe this is the grave charge of "Pro Bono Publico;" this is what he so ardently deplores. Who are the school directors of Beaver county? What their political complexion? Are we not safe in saying that at least two-thirds of the whole number belong to the Republican party? Knowing this to be so, would it have been sound policy on the part of Mr. Knight, a Democrat, or his Democratic friends, to have permitted politics in any shape to have entered into the contest? He knew that this was the rock above all others he must steer clear of, otherwise all hope of success must be abandoned. But who were the warmest supporters of Knight from first to last? Some of whom were prominent in bringing him before the people as a candidate? Representatives men of the Republican party. Not of the politic stamp—but men who have always been, and who are to-day staunch supporters of the party and its policy. Five of these are school directors in the Borough; Shurlock Shore, Intendent since resides, have known him from a boy—were present at the convention, and voted for him first and last. Had Mr. Knight, or his Democratic friends shown the least symptom of political intrigue, would those men have worked for him and voted for him as they did? Never! Had there been the slightest grounds for a suspicion of this kind, they would have worked as zealously for his defeat as they did for his election.

But as to the voting itself. Who voted for Knight? And who didn't? The correspondent of the Press, says all the directors of the Democratic party voted "solid" for him. How easy to make assertions, but how hard to get the truth to back them up.

Take for example the first and second ballots. How did Baden and Economy township vote? Solid for Mr. Dungan, and had not he (Dungan) withdrawn, we have no doubt they would have done so on the third. And yet Democratic directors from both these precincts were present at the Convention working and voting right along for Mr. Knight, whom our correspondent argues was the partisan candidate who was to lead the unterrified on to glory and victory, but for Mr. Dungan, a straight out and straightforward Republican. But sh! the last ballot was the test? Ba, ha so. Did all the Democratic directors vote for Knight on the last ballot? They did not. We know whereof we affirm. Some we could name were at liberty to do so; Democrats too not of a doubtful type, but men who talk and vote Democracy when party policy is at stake, Democrats dyed in wool, who voted on the last ballot for Mr. Curtis, thus voting first and last against their brother Democrat. And yet the Democrats must bear the lash for using deception and thereby "hoodwinking" some of the stupid, silly Republicans, such as "Briggs, Reed & Co.," and drawing them into the meshes of political intrigue. Cruel Democrats! they ought surely to put on sackcloth and repent in dust and ashes for having been guilty of so unpardonable a sin as that of decoying these innocents of the Republican party from the path of rectitude.

But be true then that politics entered more or less into the late election of county superintendent, who is responsible for it? Who are the parties who stepped aside from the true policy of our government and allowed their partisan feelings to control them? Not the successful candidate, not his party friends; not those staunch Republicans who worked so earnestly for his election. If there be guilt at all (and we fear there is) it lies with the parties who opposed the election of Mr. Knight. The opinion was generally and freely expressed some ten days or two weeks before the election that Knight would be the strong man in the convention. Something must be done to cripple him. What shall it be? Knight is a Democrat, and his Democratic friends are working for his election simply with a view to the promotion of their own party interests! This was to be the war cry. Dependent as he was upon Republican votes for success, they knew that this was the most effectual weapon they could use against him.

So much for the political phase of the question. As to packing the convention by friends of Knight, illegal voting, voting by proxy and such like, the charge is too absurd to merita reply. The thing is transparent to every intelligent reader—so plain that a fool need not err therein.

We admit there was a seeming want of dignity and order in the proceedings of the convention; but who is responsible for this want of decorum? The parties who tried to delay the proceedings of the convention by raising questions never heard of in like bodies, and of which wise men ought to be ashamed; and last, but not least, moving an adjournment of the convention after the second ballot. And for what purpose? Perhaps to talk up the political phase of the question a little stronger, convince the hoodwinked Republicans of their wayward course, get them to face about, wheel into line, cast their votes for Curtis and thus secure the defeat of Knight, the choice of the convention.

But the scheme was too shallow and too ill-timed to succeed. Knight's vote on the first ballot had been announced as seventy-eight, just eleven votes short of a majority of all the votes cast. The second ballot was eighty-five, only three short, and now the opposition becomes desperate, and they must have an adjournment, compare votes, gain time, rally their forces, and go in and win in the end. Is it any wonder that honest men should become aroused and speak warmly and sharply in opposition to such a scheme?

The writer closes his article by gravely stating: "If I succeed in accomplishing what I desire in writing this article, I shall have done something." Accomplishing what? Cui bono? Biasing the minds of the people against the Superintendent elect? And why? Simply because he is a Democrat. Doing the very thing he pretends to deprecate. The cry of deception, political intrigue and such like must ring in the ears of directors, parents, and even the minds of the pupils must be poisoned so that the Superintendent, instead of meeting with the hearty co-operation and encouragement necessary to insure success in his office, must meet with nothing but frowns and opposition, fostered and kept alive by effusions, a specimen of which appeared in the Press of the 17th inst.

The writer subscribes himself "Pro Bono Publico." We would suggest the following slight alteration, viz: "Pro Malo Publico."

Hon. W. C. Shurlock was elected President and J F Miner and Oscar Small Secretaries.

On motion of S A Dickey a committee of five, consisting of S A Dickey, H R Moore, G S Barker, H C Patterson and Hon A Duff were appointed a committee on resolutions.

The returns were opened and the clerks retired to count the votes, when the convention adjourned until two p. m.

On the re-assembling of the convention the result of the vote was announced as given elsewhere. The committee on resolutions reported as follows:

Resolved, That we approve of the policy and measures of U. S. Grant, our present Chief Executive, and confidently hope that he may again be placed in nomination for president by the Convention which is soon to assemble at Philadelphia.

Resolved, That we most cordially indorse the platform adopted by the Republican State Committee, recently assembled at Harrisburg, and heartily ratify the action of said convention in the nomination of candidates for State offices.

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to support the candidates this day placed in nomination for the different offices, and most earnestly recommend a united and hearty support by the Republican voters of Beaver county.

Resolved, That M. T. Kennedy, G. W. Hamilton and G. M. Fields be Congressional conferees; alternates, W P Townsend, Samuel Morehead and J H Trimble. Capt G S Barker, Capt W P Dawson and S R Paterson, Senatorial conferees; alternates, Capt G W Meyer, Wm. Ewing and John Wilson. Chippewa, Joseph Ledlie, Benjamin White and H R Moore, conferees for delegate for Constitutional Convention; alternates, John Slentz, J R Eakin and M Lawrence. John Caughey, J F Miner and W E Foster, Legislative Conferees; alternates, G W Shrodes, Smith Curtis, Robert Sterling.

The report of the committee was unanimously adopted, after which W S Shallenberger was unanimously elected Chairman of the County Committee, H. R. Moore Secretary, and Hon A. Duff Treasurer. On motion of W W Kerr, the following Executive Committee was elected: Jos Ledlie, Smith Curtis, G. S. Barker, W C Fisher, W C Shurlock, S A Dickey and W H Hoon, and on motion the Chairman of the County Committee, Secretary and Treasurer were made members of the Executive Committee.

On motion of Capt Meyer the Convention adjourned to meet at the call of the Chairman.

The following is the touching American epitaph in a grave-yard a very long way out West:

"Grim death has taken darling little Jerry,
The son of Joseph and Syrena Flowers;
Seven days he was ill not with dysentery,
And then he perished with his little bowels.

"Most likely it was weaning injured little Jerry:
His bottle seemed to hurt his stomach's tone;
But with the ang-is he'll get plump and merry:
For there's no nursing bottles where he's gone."

As about this time fruit growers are busily engaged in fighting, by all means at their command, that small but by no means insignificant enemy of fruit culture, the curculio. More ways of disposing of the nuisance have been proposed and tried than there are theories of how best to ameliorate the condition of mankind. A Canadian fruit grower has used a cannon, and by the concussion of the air occasioned by its reports he says that curculios are killed, or so far stunned as to fall to the ground, where they may be collected and made into a "holocaust," as the Herald would say. Another man fumigates his trees with sulphur, another makes his children climb into the branches and risk their necks for the sake of killing the great fruit destroyer. Another shakes the trees, and sprinkles them with all sorts of noxious drugs. The last man heard from rises at four o'clock in the morning, shakes his trees furiously, and then collects the killed and wounded and consigns them to the flames. At ten o'clock he brings engines into his or

SELECT MISCELLANY.

ELI PERKINS.

Brown's Girls!

They are a set of husband hunting young ladies—smart, accomplished, and pretty, but with no hearts.—They only marry for money. They are thus taught by their mothers and, failing to catch fortunes many of them become blase old maids.

Below I give the diary of two days in the life of a New York young lady. At nineteen she is honest, loveable and innocent. Seven years later she becomes a pose Brown's Girl.

HER DIARY—1856.

May 1, 1856.—Nineteen to-day—and I am too happy to live! How lovely the park looked this morning. How gracefully the swans swam on the lake, and how the yellow dandelions lifted up their yellow faces—all smiles!

Albert—dear Albert, passed mamma and I, and bowed so gracefully! mamma frowned at him, O, dear, I am not quite happy.

Last night my first ball, and Albert was there. Four times he came and I let him put his name on my card—then mamma frowned savagely. She said I ought to be ashamed to waste my time with a poor fellow like Albert Sinclair. Then she brought up Tompson, that horrid rich old widower, and I had to scratch Albert's name off. When Albert saw me dancing with Thompson the color came to his cheeks, and he only just touched the ends of my fingers in the grand chain. O, dear, one of Albert's little fingers is worth more than old Thompson's right arm. How stupidly old Tompson talked, but mamma smiled all the time.

Once she tipped me on the shoulder and said in a low harsh voice, "be agreeable, Lizzie, for Mr. Thompson' is a catch." Then Thompson, the stupid old fool, tried to talk like the young fellows. He told me I looked "stunning," said the ball was a "swell" affair, and then asked me to ride up to the park in his four-horse drag. Bah! Mother says I must go but, O, dear, I'd rather walk two blocks with Albert than ride in a chariot with old dyed whiskers.

After supper such an event took place. Albert joined me, and after a lovely waltz we walked into the conservatory and had a nice confidential chat together. It is wonderful how we both like the same things. He admires the beautiful moon—so do I. I love the stars—so does he! We both like to look out of the open window, and we both like to be near each other—that is I know I do. Albert dotes on Longfellow, and, O, don't I! I like Poe, and so does Albert, and the little tears fairly started but Albert didn't see them when he repeated softly in my ear:

"For the moon never beams, without bringing me dreams
Of my beautiful, Annabel Lee
And the stars never rise, but I feel the bright eyes
Of my beautiful Annabel Lee"

—and a good deal more besides, about love and the sounding sea. Then Fannie Carter, who is in my class at Mrs. Hoffman's, came by with Will Mason and sat right down in the next window. I do believe she loves him!

What a nice, sensible talk Albert and I had. First we began to talk about the soul—how destiny sometimes bound two souls together by an invisible chain. Then we considered the mission of man and woman upon the earth—how they ought to comfort and support each other in sickness and in health. And then Albert quite startled me by asking me if I had ever cared for any one? And when I said "Yes, papa and mamma," he laughed and said he did not mean them, and then I felt quite hurt, and the tears would come into my eyes, for I do love mamma, even if she does make me dance with the horrid old Thompson, with his dyed whiskers.

Then Albert leaned his face toward mine. I felt his mustache almost touch me as he whispered such nice words in my ear. He told me how he had longed for an opportunity to speak to me alone—how—and then I was so happy, for I knew he was going to say something very nice indeed—when ma, with that dreadful old widower, came along and interrupted us.

"Come, Lizzie, you go with Mr. Thompson, for I want to present Mr. Sinclair to Miss Brown," and then Ma—O, dear, she took Albert and presented him to the girl that I hate worse of anybody in school. I didn't see Albert again, for when he came around, Ma said, "Lizzie, it looks horrible to be seen dancing with Albert Sinclair all the evening. You ought to be ashamed of yourself."

O, dear, I look like a fright—I know I do, but I do hope I shall look better when I see Albert on the avenue to-morrow. Let's see, I wonder if he won't write to me. But I'll see him when he walks up from business to-night—maybe.

HER DIARY—1872.

May 1, 1872.—Out again last night. What horrible bores parties are. I hate society. New York woman are so prudish with their atrocious high-neck dresses, and the fellows are so wretchedly slow. O, dear! Everything goes wrong. If I hadn't met Bob Stunros, who took us to the Matis and the Alhambra on the other side last summer, I'd a died. Bob's double entendre rather startled the puny New York girls, though. Graciously, they orgotte to hear the French Bonne talk! Fancy do make such a fuss about Paris decollete dresses.—Why, Bessie Brown wore a dress at a Queen's Drawing Room without hardly any body on it at all—and she had the same dress on last night. Of course I could not stand my chance with her, for decollete dresses do not take the fellows. But I'll be on hand next time.

Young Sinclair, with whom I used to "spoon" years ago, was there—and married to Fannie Carter, my old classmate. Pshaw! she is a poky, old, high-necked, married woman now, and Albert—well, they said that he was almost broken-hearted at my conduct—that he drank, and then reformed and joined the church, and is now a leading lawyer. Well, I wish Albert had become a preacher. I would surely go to hear him preach—black does become his complexion so! There's no use of my dressing without rouge. I'm as pale as a ghost I do wish they would learn how to put on pearl white here—why every wrinkle shows through. Then I do wish New York fellows would learn how to dance—that atrocious gallop upset my pads, and I had to leave in the middle of the dance to arrange things. Old Thompson is dead, died single—but his brother, the rich whiskey man, was there, and gracious! it was fun to dance with him after he hart taken in his usual two bottles of champagne. He turned everything—the lancers, polka and all—into the Virginia reel. That's Bob Munroe's pun. But after we got through dancing, din't I have a flirtation with old Thompson No. 2 while Albert Sinclair was helping mother to some refreshments. Dear old thing, she don't bother me in my conservatory flirtation any more.—Well, old Thompson No. 2 got quite affectionate—wanted to kiss my hand and when I let him he wanted to kiss me! The old wretch—when he's got a wife and three daughters. But I had my fun—I made him propose conditionally, that is, if Mrs. Thompson dies, and I tell ma then I'm going to be one of our gay and dashing young wives with an old fool of a husband and plenty of lovers. O, dear I'm tired and I do believe my head aches awfully, and it's that abominable champagne. What goosies Ed ny Carter and albert Sinclair have made of themselves. What fun can she have with the men! O, dear!

☞ "Vat vedder vill it be to-day?" asked a German of his neighbor. "Vell, I don't know; vat you tink?" "I tink it vill be vedder as you tink." "Vell, I tink so too."

Home and Health.

When disease of any kind invades the family circle it brings unhappiness and pain. In the words home and health are embodied sentiments of the highest concern to all who wish the greatest degree of enjoyment which this world affords. We have seen many a pale sickly girl fading away as the frost melts before the kiss of the sunbeam, the pallor indicative of waning health may be seen spreading its touch of decay over her once beaming face, now comes the cough, the wasting of the flesh, the tremulous walk, the sunken eye, the expectoration of blood or matter which point out that the lungs are failing in their office. Now is the time to take a remedy, such a one as Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure, which will not only improve the blood and add to its plastic power, but will aid the lymphatic and eliminating organs to remove from the system the lurking poisons which taint and vitiate the blood. It is all right to wrap up in flannels and to protect the feet with shoes impervious to the wet and slush of winter, but when the cough comes, the fevered glow of the face, the quickened movement of the heart you may well know that something more is needed to preserve the animal organism from wreck and ultimate ruin. It is useless to cry out when all the avenues of life have been forced, and when function after function has surrendered to the enemy. Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure is the remedy that will cure consumption as well as remove that cachectic state of the system upon which it depends.

Sold at $1.50 per bottle, 4 for $5.00, at 167 Liberty street, Pittsburgh. Dr. Keyser's private office for lung examinations in the rear. Office hours from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 3 to 6 p. m., except Sundays and Tuesdays. Send for pamphlet.

It is night now, and here is home. Gathered under the quiet roof, elders and children lie alike at rest. In the midst of great peace and calm, the stars look out from the heavens. The silence is peopled with the past; sorrowful remorses for the short-comings, memories of passionate joys and griefs rise out of their graves, both now alike calm and sad. Eyes, as I shut mine, look at me, that have long since ceased to shine. The town and fair landscape sleep under the starlight, wreathed in the autumn mist. Twinkling among the houses, a light keeps watch, here and there, in what may be a sick chamber or two. The clock tolls sweetly in the silent air. Here is night and rest. An awful sense of thanks makes the heart swell, and head bow, as I pass to my room through the sleeping house, and feel as though a hushed blessing were upon it.—Thackeray.

Murder will Out.

and so will truth. Facts are stubborn things, and will come to the surface. Agents may blow and puff about the superiority of this or that make of sewing machines, but when put to the test, these pretentions will be found vapory as the morning dew. Popular judgment—the verdict of the people—is the only true criteria on of superiority. Nearly one-third of the entire number of sewing machines sold in this country last year were of the Singer pattern, where are the boasts of popularity now? Straw & Morton, of No. 21 Sixth street, Pittsburgh, are the agents for this district.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Scurvy and diseases of the Skin—Fever, restless sleep, foul stomach, tainted breath, languor, depression of spirits, always attendant on the worst cases of cutaneous eruptions, are speedily and radically removed by these medicines—the Ointment cleanses the skin, and the Pills purify the blood, stimulate the liver, and promote digestion. 25 cents per box or pot. 185.

MELANGE.

☞ In a Hoosier court, a witness being asked how he knew certain persons were man and wife, replied: "Why, dog on it, haven't I heard them scold more'n fifty times."

☞ Johnson's Anodyne Liniment will give more relief in cases of Chronic Rheumatism, no matter how severe, than any other article known to medical men.

☞ Stubbs wonders where all the pillow cases go. He says he never asked a girl what she was making while engaged in white sewing, without being told it was a pillow case.

☞ A Dutch justice gives the following oath to a witness: "You dog awfully swore that you will tell de trute, de whole trute, and nodings but de trute the best vat you can't."

☞ A Quaker once hearing a person tell how much he had felt for another who was in distress and needed assistance, drily asked him: "Friend, hast thou felt in thy pocket for him?"

☞ A negro preacher once observed to his hearers, at the end of his sermon, as follows: "My obstinaculous brederen, I find no more use to preach to you, dan it is for a grass hopper to wear knee-buckles."

☞ Here is a joke for country boys: Two Irishmen once saw a red headed woodpecker pecking away at an old stump. "Murther, Jemmy!" exclaimed one of them to his companion, "just look at your bur-red; he's hammered his head till it's all blayden!"

"Father," said a roguish boy, I hope you won't buy any more gunpowder tea for mother." "Why not?" "Because every time she drinks it she blows me up." "Go to bed immediately, you've stayed up long enough."

☞ A thick headed squire who was worsted by Sydney Smith in an argument, took revenge by exclaiming: "If I had a son who was an idiot, by Jove! I'd make him a parson." "Very probable," replied Sydney, "but I see your father was of a very different mind."

☞ Mistress (to new housemaid)—"Jane, I'm quite surprised to hear that you can't read or write! I'm sure one of my daughters would gladly undertake to teach you!" Maid—"O, Lor, mum, if the young ladies would learn me anything, I would like to play the pianner!".

☞ Corpulant old lady—"I should like a ticket for the train." Booking clerk (who thinks we will have a joke)—"Yes'm; will you go in the passenger train or the cattle train?" Lady—"Well, if you are a specimen of what I shall experience in a passenger train give me a ticket for the cattle train by all means."

☞ A Yankee in Texas, while at listening to the stories of a Louisianian in regard to the marvelous growth of sugar-cane on his plantation near New Orleans, finally said: "That ain't nothing. I've seen cane in old New England more'n a mile in length." "What kind of cane was it?" was the general inquiry. "A hurricane" answered the triumphant Yankee.

It is often remarked by strangers visiting our state, that we show a larger proportion of good horses than any other State in the Union. This, we tell them, is owing to two principles: in the first place, we breed from the very best stock; and in the second place, our people use Sheridan's Cayenne Condition Powders, which in our judgment are of incalculable advantage.

☞ A story is told of a parson who is favored with absent mindedness and a short memory. He has a habit of forgetting something he intends to say in the pulpit, and then, after sitting down, will rise up and begin his supplementary remarks with, "By the way." Recently he got through a prayer, when he hesitated, forgot what he was about, and sat down abruptly. In a moment or two he arose, and pointing his finger at the amazed congregation, said, "Oh, by the way Amen!"

☞ A boy could not see why the "leaves" of tables, not resembling any leaves with which he was familiar, should be so called. At last he found it out.

"I know," he cried; "they're called so because you can leave them up or you can leave them down." "Leaves have their time to fall"—after dinner.

☞ DURING OUR INTERVIEW, the American Consul at Bankok, presented the King an elegant assortment of his medicines from Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., for the use of the Court. He explained to his majesty their origin from the great chemist and their uses. The Cherry Pectoral for coughs—the Sarsaparilla for eruptive diseases and the Ague Cure for the fevers that are so fatal in this hot country. The dangerous condition of a favorite wife in the palace with one of the disorders these medicines cure, gave him special interest in these products of medical skill; indeed, these medical marvels interested him more in our country than all the other attentions we had shown him.—Letters from a Lady in Siam.

☞ The Detroit Free Press mourns the loss of a smart boy in this manner: The public will regret to learn that the family of James Otis, Porter street, is to remove to Saginaw, taking young Johnny along. The boy started out two years ago by shooting himself. Two months after he choked himself with a fishbone. A few days after he built a fire in the barn and called ont the steamers. He then swallowed a top, got run over by an ice wagon, fell into the river, was lost for three days, and first and last he has been a fountain of local news, whose value can not be estimated on slate four feet square. If the Saginaw reporters only commence on him right he will "pan out" at least three times per week. He should be furnished with a box of matches, a horse pistol, and plenty of gunpowder, and it won't do any harm to pat him on the back occasionally and tell him that his efforts are appreciated.

☞ A note for Darwin.—It is of the elder Dumas, whose death has recently occurred that the following story is told. A stranger having heard with surprise that Dumas was a quadroon, called upon him to verify the fact.

"I am told," began the visitor, "that you are a quadroon, Monsieur Dumas?"

"Yes," answered Dumas!"

"And your father?"

"Was a mulatto! the distinguished Gen. Dumas, of the army of Italy and a mulatto!" roared the author, in tones that left no doubt of the quality of his lungs.

"And his mother?" continued the intruder, interrogatively.

"Was a negro!" shouted Dumas, rising to his feet.

"And who, may I ask was her mother?" continued the enterprising and indefatigable bore.

"An ape, sir, an ape!" thundered the indignant author. "My family begins exactly where yours ends—waiter, show that monkey the door!"

Tumor of 13 Years' Growth Cured by Radway's Resolvent.

BRYANT, Mass., July 10, 1869.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Cancer on my face and breast. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried every thing that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took seven bottles of the Resolvent, two of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief, and there is not a sign of tumor to be seen on me. I feel better, smarter, and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the breast, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL

PURE D. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS

Vinegar Bitters are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the Great Blood Purifier and a Life-giving Principle, a Perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition, enriching it, refreshing and invigorating both mind and body. They are easy of administration, prompt in their action, certain in their results, safe and reliable in all forms of disease.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion. Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. In these complaints it has no equal, and one bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, and in Bilious Diseases.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases is all convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Grateful thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist: There is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

Mechanical Diseases. Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Typesetters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, will be subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS once or twice a week, as a Preventive

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goiter, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters act on all these cases in a similar manner. By purifying the Blood they remove the cause, and by resolving away the effects of the inflammation (the tubercular deposits) the affected parts receive health, and a permanent cure is effected.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic and Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

The Aperient and mild Laxative properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are the best safe-guard in all cases of eruptions and malignant fevers, their balsamic, healing, and soothing properties protect the humors of the fauces. Their Sedative properties allay pain in the nervous system, stomach, and bowels, either from inflammation, wind, colic, cramps, etc. Their Counter-Irritant influence extends throughout the system. Their Anti-Bilious properties stimulate the liver, in the secretion of bile, and its discharges through the biliary ducts, and are superior to all remedial agents, for the cure of Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, etc.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus forearmed.

Directions.—Take of the Bitters on going to bed at night from a half to one and one-half wineglassfull. Eat good nourishing food, such as beefsteak, mutton chop, venison, roast beef, and vegetables, and take out-door exercise. They are composed of purely vegetable ingredients, and contain no spirit.
